

Would you like to prevent seismic airgun blasting and offshore drilling off the Atlantic Coast? Despite his administration being sued by nine attorneys general (including our own Brian Frosh) and numerous conservation groups, Donald Trump ordered that five oil companies be given permits to begin the search and drilling process during the government shutdown.

Fortunately, environmentalists were able to get a temporary injunction, but time is running out. There will be a comment period soon. Citizen participation is critical. Please come to the next meeting of Indivisible Dorchester to find out how to participate.

Proposed Atlantic Offshore Drilling
What's at Stake for the Chesapeake?
by Matt Heim, Oceana

Friday, April 5

7:00 until 8:30

Whatley Hall

Cambridge

Note: Whatley Hall is the fellowship hall for Christ Episcopal Church, 601 Church St., Cambridge (across from the Cambridge post office.) When you see the church (on the corner), keep driving on Church St. past the cemetery. The next building on the right is Whatley Hall. There is ample parking available.